Plan Strike At Harvard To Protest Police Tactics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

About 1,200 of Harvard University students have voted to strike for three days at the 15,000-student Ivy League school to protest police tactics in ending a campus sit-in. Some professors canceled today's classes.

Sit-ins and strikes beset other campuses around the country.

The Harvard strike vote came Thursday in Memorial church after some 400 helmeted policemen swarmed onto the campus earlier in the day to break up the sit-in, leaving 39 students injured and 197 arrested.

The students debated for several hours before fixing the strike "to thoroughly condemn the bringing of police onto this campus, and the excessive use of violence while they were here."

About 150 students ran out of the meeting and raced through Harvard Yard, shouting "Smash ROTC, no expansion" and "On strike. Shut it down. Join us."

The sit-in on the Cambridge, Mass., campus had begun Wednesday to protest the Reserve Officers Training Corps program and plans denied by Harvard officials to expand the medical school and displace local Negro residents. The sit-in was organized by Students for a Democratic Society.

Seven policemen and three nonstudents were also hurt in Thursday's melee.

In Stanford, Calif., about 600 students voted Thursday night to remain inside Stanford University's Applied Electronics Laboratory, where they had moved in Wednesday.

At Dartmouth, Mass., normal classroom activity ceased at this truly fine gesture of western hospitality. Of course not. On May 10, we and students like us from all over the Midwest will flock to Zap, the Lauderdale of the North "Where did you get your suntan, Miami?"

"No, Knife River."

"Hunger may be kept at bay by stopping at the Zap cafe. Headlining the menu is the Zapburger (I swear that's the name) for only 40 cents. Juke box music at the cafe is particularly exciting. Some of the town favorites on the jukebox are "Heartbreak Waltz," "Swinging Benny Polka," naturally recorded by Swinging Benny and his Polka Band, Cousin Tizzy and the Jolly Huntsmen."

Spectrum editor Don Homuth explained that the article was just a bit of high camp.

But, Homuth said, he's received several inquiries from students around the state and the suggestion that a sports car rally be held between Fargo and Zap.

Mayor Fuchs doesn't know whether to demand an apology, call out the troops or forget the whole thing.

Students May Zip To Zap Instead Of Fort Lauderdale

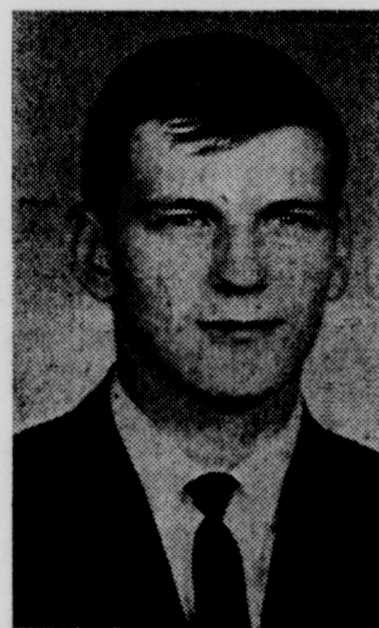

ZAP, N.D. (AP) — The mayor of Zap is a worried man and it has little to do with spring flooding.

Norman Fuchs can't make up his mind whether the students at North Dakota State University in Fargo are kidding or serious when they say Zap will become the Fort Lauderdale of the Northwest on May 10.

Apollo 12 Moon Team Is Chosen

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A balding, 38-year-old veteran of two space flights will lead a three-man team on man's first attempt at true exploration of the moon.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration named Cmdr. Charles Conrad Thursday as commander of an all-Navy astronaut crew on Apollo 12, scheduled to bring off man's second lunar landing.

With Conrad on the flight will be Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon, 39, command module pilot, and Lt. Cmdr. Alan L. Bean, 37, the lunar module pilot. Apollo 12 is intended as the first of nine flights of exploration of the lunar topography. Its flight plan includes up to 12 hours of crew activity outside the space craft and on the moon's bleak surface.

Apollo 11, which is scheduled for launch in July, will allow only a few hours of crew activity on the moon. An official once characterized the Apollo 11 lunar landing as a "grab and go."

Astronauts on that flight will do little but pick up 50 pounds of rock and leave.

In contrast, an official said, Apollo 12 will launch a fuller exploration.

Conrad and Bean will walk several yards away from the module during two lunar strolls. Officials had said earlier that following the initial moon landing NASA will attempt a total of nine landings at different sites on the moon. Each will be devoted to exploration.

One day earlier, the board had granted a special permit waiving its regulation prohibiting free rides on inaugural flights by charter airlines.

A spokesman for the agency which regulates air routes and fares said scheduled airlines are allowed to take free passengers when they inaugurate new routes. And he added it is unusual for board members and staff to be nonpaying guests on

Nixon, Fawzi Study Mideast Peace Plan

Hussein Proposal
Reportedly Backed
By Egypt's Nasser

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high Egyptian official arranged a farewell visit to the White House today, giving President Nixon a chance to explore a six-point Mideast peace plan offered by Jordan's King Hussein.

The visit from Dr. Mahmud Fawzi, Cairo's representative to the funeral of former President Eisenhower, came after Hussein wound up a three-day state visit Thursday by sketching his plan in a National Press Club speech.

Hussein said he was authorized to speak for Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser in proposing the plan that would guarantee freedom of passage through the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal to the ships of Israel and all other nations of the region.

In return for this, Hussein said, Israel must hand back all territory it has occupied since the six-day war of June 1967.

"The challenge that these principles present," said Hussein, "is that Israel may have either peace or territory—but she can never have both."

State Department officials could not recall that Nasser had ever given assurances such as Hussein's in any previous proposal for a peace settlement.

U. S. officials were wary however. They assumed Hussein was speaking for Nasser but there was no assurance how long this relation might last between the two Arab leaders.

The United States also has questions about a resumption of U.S.-UAR diplomatic ties which Nasser snapped during the Arab-Israeli war.

Hussein and Nixon agreed in a joint statement to work toward peace in the Middle East and Nixon reaffirmed U.S. support for the independence of Jordan.

NATO Asks Nixon Comment On Conference Bid By Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon met privately today with Atlantic Alliance foreign ministers to discuss further his plan to improve consultation among allies and a Communist proposal for an East-West conference on European security.

Nixon's suggestions Thursday for the future of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization met with mixed reaction in some delegations.

Some members said the proposals would duplicate in part current NATO machinery while watering down its original military and political purposes by expanding its role to include social problems.

Much of the talk at today's closing sessions of the 20th anniversary meeting continued to center around the Warsaw Pact bid to open discussions between the Western allies and the Soviet bloc.

The Communist suggestion, made last month, became the central topic of the NATO Council meeting when it opened Thursday.

Qualified approval of the proposal was expected even before the opening of today's session, although France's Michel Debre had given the Soviet suggestion what amounted to a cold shoulder.

The American position was spelled out by Nixon Thursday when he addressed the council. The President, who reportedly asked to meet with the ministers before they issued a communiqué on the Soviet proposal today, said in his Thursday speech that it was "not enough to talk of European security in the abstract."

"We must know the elements of insecurity and how to remove them," Nixon said. "Conferees are useful if they deal with concrete issues, which means they must be carefully prepared."

The need for careful preparation was stressed also by most ministers. Many of them had another reservation, too: There can be no conference without the United States and Canada, the two Western hemisphere countries the Soviets excluded in the past proposals for discussions on European matters.

Moscow, it now appears, has changed its mind. Soviet envoys in Washington and in Europe are assuring everyone who is willing to listen that they have dropped their insistence on a "conference without the United States and Canada."

Nixon, in his address, advised the Council to find ways of "living in the real world."

This includes, he said, "unfreezing our old concepts of East versus West while never losing sight of great ideological differences."

NATO, the President said, "is needed; and the American commitment to NATO will remain in force and remain strong. We in America continue to consider Europe's security as our own."

Newmann told a reporter he was not the examiner involved in the Bermuda route case. But the recommendation issued on May 24, 1968, listed Newmann as the examiner.

Newmann said it is normal for someone from the CAB to be the United States representative on inaugural flights overseas.

A State Department official, who declined to be named, said it is "very rare" to have an official representative of the executive branch of government on such flights.

As for the two CAB officials on the flight to Leningrad, he said, "I wouldn't characterize them as official representatives of the U.S. government."

He said, however, CAB officials often go on such flights because "one of their functions is to promote air transportation in general."

Marks Biggest Enemy Upsurge In 3 Weeks

SAIGON (AP) — Unleashing the heaviest shelling of South Vietnamese towns and allied bases in weeks, the Viet Cong opened a new and more violent phase of its seven-week-old spring offensive.

Rockets and mortars hit more than 45 towns and bases during the night. The heaviest attacks were made on provincial capitals on opposite sides of Saigon, Tay Ninh to the northwest and Vinh Long to the southwest.

At least 21 persons were killed, 200 were wounded in the two cities and about 80 others were missing in Tay Ninh. Some Americans were among the wounded, but no American deaths were reported.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said six provincial and five district capitals were among the targets Thursday night, and that about a third of the attacks were in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon.

The night's attacks were among the most devastating of the offensive which began Feb. 23 and the heaviest since the night of March 20-21, when 65 rocket and mortar attacks were reported.

During the past three weeks the shelling had dropped off to between 10 to 20 attacks a night. U.S. military analysts said earlier this week the offensive was (Continued on Page 2)

Stans Seeking To Hike Trade With Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans flies to Europe today on a two-week tour aimed at bolstering the sagging posture of U.S. foreign trade.

Officials of the State, Treasury, Agriculture and Labor departments, the Council of Economic Advisers and the White House will accompany him to Brussels, Amsterdam, Bonn, Geneva, Milan, Rome, Paris and London.

Stans' itinerary is studded with 28 official meetings, 15 official luncheons and dinners and other appointments with Europe's top businessmen and government trade officials. He will return to Washington April 26.

Despite its declared objective of promoting trade, the trip has drawn criticism from some quarters because it is understood Stans will be feeling out the Europeans on the possibility of cutting down their exports of wool and manmade fibers such as nylon to the U.S. market.

Volunteers Patrol Weakened Dikes Along Big Sioux

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Volunteers patrolled dikes through the night in Sioux City, Iowa, where the Big Sioux River flowed out of its banks and across three miles of land, submerging homes or leaving rooftops exposed like tiny dots.

The 200 volunteers were adults called out to relieve more than 1,000 teen-agers and college students who were given credit Thursday for helping to save some northwest Iowa towns from the ravages of river floods.

The biggest fear among residents forced from their homes where the Big Sioux flows into the Missouri River along the South Dakota and Iowa border was that constant pressure on the levees would cause a breakthrough and inundate the area.

Otherwise, flooding conditions today were no worse than Thursday when water soaked through a dike at Sioux Falls, S.D., forcing the evacuation of 50 families and rupturing a natural gas pipeline.

The youngsters pitched in to repair the damaged barrier and no injuries resulted from the broken gas line.

High schools in the flood-threatened communities freed students from classes to join the flood-fighting force and colleges in the area were in the midst of Easter vacation.

At Cherokee, Iowa, where some 350 persons had been forced to flee their homes when the Little Sioux River flooded 27 blocks, evacuation chairman Carvell Burkhardt praised the young people.

"We hear more about the youngsters who do wrong," said Burkhardt. "These boys are the kind anyone would be proud to have as a son."

Some of the Cherokee residents began returning to their homes today.

All 800 residents of North Sioux City, S.D., remained away from their homes, abandoned to the swirling waters which crested between 12 and 12.5 feet early today. The flood level was not expected to recede before Saturday.

Du Pont Plant Presented Top Safety Award

The National Safety Council announced today that the local DuPont plant has been presented the council's highest award for its excellent safety performance, the "Award of Honor."

The award is presented only when a company's record satisfies rigid requirements laid down in the council's award plan for recognizing good industrial safety records.

In a letter of congratulations, Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, explained that DuPont qualified for the award because of the injury-free period from July 1, 1966 through December, 1968. The plant accumulated more than six million safe exposure hours for this period.

The Circleville plant is continuing its excellent safety record. According to company officials, the safety mark now stands at six and one-half million exposure hours.

Two weeks ago, the plant surpassed the 1,000th safe days mark.

De Gaulle Irks Paris Press

PARIS (AP) — Paris newspapers grumbled today at President Charles de Gaulle's threat to resign if the French people don't approve two constitutional changes at a referendum April 27. But none of them predicted whether the threat would get De Gaulle the approval he demanded.

In a television interview Thursday night, De Gaulle said the outcome of the vote on his proposals to transfer some of the central government's vast powers to regional administrations and to take away the already limited powers of the Senate will determine "the continuation of my mandate or my immediate departure."

Opponents argue that the referendum should be split to permit separate votes on the plan to set up 21 regional administrations and on the Senate proposal.

There is practically no opposition to the idea of breaking the stranglehold of the central administration by establishing regional groupings. But there has been considerable reluctance to reduce the Senate to the role of an advisory body.

Now De Gaulle has thrown a third element into the vote by making it an expression of confidence in his own stewardship.

Officials Get Free Rides On New Air Routes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top Civil Aeronautics Board officials and their wives flew free-of-charge to Leningrad Thursday on the first of a series of Soviet vacation tours approved earlier by the CAB.

One day earlier, the board had granted a special permit waiving its regulation prohibiting free rides on inaugural flights by charter airlines.

A spokesman for the agency which regulates air routes and fares said scheduled airlines are allowed to take free passengers when they inaugurate new routes. And he added it is unusual for board members and staff to be nonpaying guests on these first flights.

In fact, two other CAB officials now are on a week-long visit to South Africa, flying there free when South African National Airways launched regular service from New York.

Making the Soviet trip are CAB executive director Charles Kiefer and the agency's general counsel, Joseph Goldman, and their wives. Two years ago Kiefer took a free ride when Eastern Airlines inaugurated service between Miami and the Bahamas.

The two CAB officials on the flight to South Africa are chief examiner Thomas L. Wrenn and Allan Craig, deputy director of the Bureau of Accounts and Statistics. Also on board that flight are Rep. Samuel N. Friedel, D-Md., chairman of the House transportation and aeronautics subcommittee, and his wife. For paying passengers the South African trip cost $1,577.

When Northeast Air Lines inaugurated a Boston-to-Bermuda route on Feb. 28, guests on the first flight included board member Robert T. Murphy and Ross I. Newmann, the CAB examiner who recommended the air lines be given the route.

The airline paid the expenses of its guests the three days they were in Bermuda, Newmann said.

Newmann told a reporter he was not the examiner involved in the Bermuda route case. But the recommendation issued on May 24, 1968, listed Newmann as the examiner.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Addition of four educational television (ETV) stations to Ohio's current network will carry culture to "every boy and girl in every classroom in Ohio," Gov. James A. Rhodes said today.
Rhodes, announcing final approval of Ohio's $8 million network expansion program, said four new stations will be located in Dayton, Portsmouth, Woodfield and Alliance.
With these additions to current stations in Columbus, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Toledo, Athens, Oxford, Newark and Bowling Green, "This network will serve all of Ohio's nearly 11 million people," he added.
The total includes 2.8 million elementary and secondary school students and 340,000 college students.

After anti-Soviet demonstrations two weeks ago in several cities, the party's leaders said the press, radio and television were partly to blame. Presumably prodded by the Russians, they imposed prepublication and prebroadcast censorship again and set up a commission to oversee the news organs.

Ohio Gets Grant For Driver Education

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Transportation has granted Ohio $736,000 in matching funds for driver education courses in the state's public schools. Sen. William B. Saxbe, R - Ohio, announced Thursday.
The money will be used to purchase mobile driver simulators which are to be moved from school district to school district during the program.
There is practically no opposition to the idea of breaking the stranglehold of the central administration by establishing regional groupings. But there has been considerable reluctance to reduce the Senate to the role of an advisory body.
Now De Gaulle has thrown a third element into the vote by making it an expression of confidence in his own stewardship.

Du Pont Plant Presented Top Safety Award

The National Safety Council announced today that the local DuPont plant has been presented the council's highest award for its excellent safety performance, the "Award of Honor."
The award is presented only when a company's record satisfies rigid requirements laid down in the council's award plan for recognizing good industrial safety records.
In a letter of congratulations, Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, explained that DuPont qualified for the award because of the injury-free period from July 1, 1966 through December, 1968. The plant accumulated more than six million safe exposure hours for this period.
The Circleville plant is continuing its excellent safety record. According to company officials, the safety mark now stands at six and one-half million exposure hours.
Two weeks ago, the plant surpassed the 1,000th safe days mark.

De Gaulle Irks Paris Press

PARIS (AP) — Paris newspapers grumbled today at President Charles de Gaulle's threat to resign if the French people don't approve two constitutional changes at a referendum April 27. But none of them predicted whether the threat would get De Gaulle the approval he demanded.
In a television interview Thursday night, De Gaulle said the outcome of the vote on his proposals to transfer some of the central government's vast powers to regional administrations and to take away the already limited powers of the Senate will determine "the continuation of my mandate or my immediate departure."
Opponents argue that the referendum should be split to permit separate votes on the plan to set up 21 regional administrations and on the Senate proposal.

$2 Billion School Plan Unveiled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio legislators now know that the governor wants to spend slightly more than $2 billion for education in Ohio during the next two years.

For months now, administration officials have said they couldn't put a price tag on Gov. James A. Rhodes' education plan because they were "still putting figures together."

Legislators were told only what a few specific programs would cost, but were warned that they would be "shocked" at the total amount.

Despite the lull in the enemy offensive in the past week, the U. S. One was reported shot down in the Mekong Delta Thursday, and the loss of eight others had been explained in earlier communiques during the week, but there was no explanation for the loss of the other 17.

South Vietnamese sources said more than 100 mortar rounds hit the market place, a prison and Vietnamese officers' mess in Vinh Long, a delta city 65 miles southwest of Saigon.

Initial reports said 15 persons were killed and 105 were wounded, including 96 Vietnamese civilians.

On the other side of Saigon and close to the Cambodian border, more than 80 rocket and mortar rounds slammed into Tay Ninh, blowing up two ammunition dumps, destroying 100 buildings and causing at least 101 casualties, officials reported.

Six Juveniles Confess To Theft

Six juveniles have admitted to the theft of items from an empty car, according to Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

The boys allegedly took items valued at $10 from the empty car of Howard Wilson, Route 3, Thursday night.

Wilson told Sheriff Radcliff that he had parked his car on Van Meter Road and then went into a field to look for worms. At about 11:44 p.m. he saw several teenagers around his car he stated. When he got back to the car the juveniles had left with several items, according to the report.

The six juveniles are due to report at the sheriff's office about 8 p.m. Friday to make restitution.

The cost was disclosed Thursday in the administration's supplementary appropriations bill introduced in the Ohio House. It would increase state spending

Clear, Crisp Air Covers Central U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clear and occasionally crisp weather prevailed in a large part of the country from the Rockies to the Appalachians today and frost nipped northern sections of the Plains and Midwest.

Temperatures fell into the 20s through the northern Great Lakes. Readings in the 30s and 40s ranged southward to the Central Plains and middle Mississippi Valley.

The cold generally was not severe enough, however, to slow flood waters threatening sections of Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota.

Thunderstorms over the Southwest marred a mostly fair pattern elsewhere across the country.

A severe wind and hail storm lashed the southeastern New Mexico community of Jal late Thursday, tearing down power lines and toppling trees. Large hail also thrashed an area west of Andrews, in West Texas.

A few showers sprinkled the Northern Rockies during the night, but most other sections of the West enjoyed fair and mild weather.

Generally pleasant spring conditions also prevailed along the Eastern Seaboard. Temperatures before dawn ranged from 23 at Marquette, Mich., to 75 at Laredo, Tex.

David Penrod, 22, Route 3, was charged by Circleville Police with removing a stop sign from an intersection. Penrod forfeited a $24 bond.

Sharon Hayes, 22, Route 4, forfeited a $19 bond set on a charge of speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone. Don Shisler, 39, of 361 E. Town St., pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated. He was fined $10 plus costs.

The court collected $218 in fines, costs and bond forfeitures from 12 out-of-county motorists.

down, giving Arledge and the spectators a suspenseful moment.

"If that pin wouldn't have fallen, I think everybody in the place would have run down the alley to knock it over," one spectator commented.

Arledge had a 719 scratch series Thursday, starting off with a 202 game, then a 217 and finally the perfect. He carries a five handicap in the league.

Tom Eyeland, manager of Prairie Lanes, said that officials from the American Bowling Congress were to be in Circleville today to verify the 300 game.

There has never been an ABC sanctioned 300 game rolled in Circleville, area bowling buffs say. If the ABC sanctions the game, Arledge will be eligible for a number of special awards.

Felony Charges Expected Against 3 Military Men

Charges of larceny, destruction of property and indecent exposure are expected to be brought against three men arrested in Ashville Thursday night.

A television set was allegedly removed from the bar by the three men and left in front of the Ashville bank, according to the sheriff.

Bad Check Cases Heard By City Court

Three charges of writing a check on a closed account were brought against William Bussard, Route 3, in Municipal Court Thursday.

Bussard entered pleas of not guilty to all three charges. Judge Sterling Lamb found Bussard guilty on the first charge of giving a bad check for $30 to Big Bear Stores. Bussard was fined $50 plus costs.

On the other two counts Bussard was bound to the Pickaway County Grand Jury on bonds totaling $3,500.

The first charge of writing a check on a closed account is a misdemeanor and can be tried by the Municipal Court. The second count automatically becomes a felony, explained Naomi Houghton, clerk of court.

Clear, Crisp Air Covers Central U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Clear and occasionally crisp weather prevailed in a large part of the country from the Rockies to the Appalachians today and frost nipped northern sections of the Plains and Midwest.

Temperatures fell into the 20s through the northern Great Lakes. Readings in the 30s and 40s ranged southward to the Central Plains and middle Mississippi Valley.

The cold generally was not severe enough, however, to slow flood waters threatening sections of Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota.

Thunderstorms over the Southwest marred a mostly fair pattern elsewhere across the country.

A severe wind and hail storm lashed the southeastern New Mexico community of Jal late Thursday, tearing down power lines and toppling trees. Large hail also thrashed an area west of Andrews, in West Texas.

A few showers sprinkled the Northern Rockies during the night, but most other sections of the West enjoyed fair and mild weather.

Generally pleasant spring conditions also prevailed along the Eastern Seaboard. Temperatures before dawn ranged from 23 at Marquette, Mich., to 75 at Laredo, Tex.

David Penrod, 22, Route 3, was charged by Circleville Police with removing a stop sign from an intersection. Penrod forfeited a $24 bond.

Sharon Hayes, 22, Route 4, forfeited a $19-bond set on a charge of speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Don Shisler, 39, of 361 E. Town St., pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated. He was fined $10 plus costs.

The court collected $218 in fines, costs and bond forfeitures from 12 out-of-county motorists.

Bad Check Cases Heard By City Court

Three charges of writing a check on a closed account were brought against William Bussard, Route 3, in Municipal Court Thursday.

Bussard entered pleas of not guilty to all three charges. Judge Sterling Lamb found Bussard guilty on the first charge of giving a bad check for $30 to Big Bear Stores. Bussard was fined $50 plus costs.

On the other two counts Bussard was bound to the Pickaway County Grand Jury on bonds totaling $3,500.

The first charge of writing a check on a closed account is a misdemeanor and can be tried by the Municipal Court. The second count automatically becomes a felony, explained Naomi Houghton, clerk of court.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Ban Opposite Sex From Beauty Shop?

DEAR ABBY: A man complains because a woman invades his privacy when she walks into his barbershop. "All conversation stops," he says. Well, ain't that just too bad!

I HAVE to take my boys (ages 4 and 6) to the barbershop for their haircuts because their father is dead, and I don't believe in "leaving" my kids places for other people to keep their eye on. They're MY kids, it is MY job, and I stay with them.

Now, how about the MEN who come into beauty parlors to wait for their wives? I know one old coot who goes with his wife just to ogle the half-clad ladies getting their hair done.

I don't appreciate being stared at by a strange man when I've got my head in a shampoo bowl, or have a purple mess on my hair during a color.

So, be a pal, Abby, and tell them that we won't go into their barber shops unless we have a legitimate reason if they'll not come into our beauty parlors unless THEY have one.

FLORENCE IN WORTHINGTON
DEAR FLORENCE: All right, but the only legitimate reasons a man could have for coming into a beauty parlor would be to announce a fire or serve a subpoena.

DEAR ABBY: The doctor says my wife has to have her ovaries removed. I know that when you spay a dog, which I understand is a similar type operation, she gets fat and lazy. I am wondering if the same thing will happen to my wife?

WISCONSIN
DEAR WISCONSIN: I can't guarantee your wife won't get fat and lazy, but if she does,

Nuns Leaders In Church Reform

NEW YORK (AP) — The "new nun" today is the surprise package of religious initiative and reform.

While much of church officialdom still is grappling over how to handle new ideas, she's carrying them out.

"We're way ahead of the priests," says Sister Margaret Mary Bach. "Once a woman gets an impression that something should be done—zoom! She does it. But a man sits and thinks about it."

It's a difference in temperament, she adds, between the abstractly analytical male and the intuitive female.

In any case, the tide of change and renovation has swept the Catholic orders of women in this country, transforming to varying degrees the rules and ways of their 176,000 members.

"It's bringing about an entirely new life style, a wider, freer expression of religious community," says Sister Margaret Mary. "The heart of it all is openness both to the world and the divine presence in it."

That altered outlook, reversing the previous emphasis on keeping nuns fenced off from the sullied worldly arena, has produced a whirl of changes in the sisterhoods, including:

— Widespread easing of the formerly fixed, uniform patterns of worship and work, allowing leeway for individually planned schedules of activity.

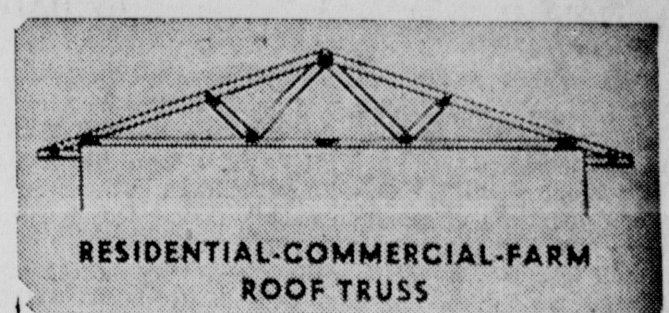

— More democratic operational procedures, providing for member participation in electing or recommending superiors and in revising constitutions and bylaws.

— Greater flexibility and freedom in choosing types of work, permitting more activity in secular spheres and encouraging fuller involvement in the world-at-large.

"We used to be taught to be afraid of involvement, to keep ourselves removed from the world—that it's dirty! Sister Margaret Mary said in an interview.

"But we're not afraid of involvement anymore. We see the need to integrate the sacred and the secular, to bear witness to the religious dimension in life with people, as fully human beings," she said. "But man's whole consciousness has been changed by his awareness of relativity, indeterminacy, an exploding universe and evolution. God himself is not an unchanging God—a brick wall!"

DEAR ABBY: When I was an infant I was adopted by a couple who were told they could have no children. Soon afterwards, they had a little girl of their own. Then a boy. Then another boy. All my life I have been introduced as "the girl we adopted." My brothers were always referred to as "our boys, and my sister was always called "our REAL daughter."

When my parents celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently, my mother announced that ALL her grandchildren were present, yet two of my children were missing.

When my sister's daughter came in with her baby, my mother said, "Here is my one and only great-grandchild." My granddaughter who is 12 heard her, and said, "I thought I was a great-grandchild, too." My mother said, "No, dear, you have to be a BLOOD RELATION to be a generation." Someone heard her, and said, "This is one for Dear Abby."

Well, Abby, what do you say?

ADOPTED IN LEOMINSTER, MASS.

DEAR ADOPTED: I say your precise recollections prove the depth of the hurt inflicted on you. I say, also, after "30 years" of enduring that hurt, why nourish it? Why keep it alive? You've WON! Why carry on the fight?

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 69, faithful, loving, and strong sexually. He says his home life is satisfying in every way. So if he is so content, why does he stare at every bosomy female he sees on the street? And why does he enjoy pictures of naked ladies in magazines?

I pray we never get a topless restaurant in our little town, for if he ever went into one, I would never be able to get him out.

Should I let him play his little boy game, or forget it? He reads you, so please print this.

BEWILDERED GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: If your "looker" is faithful and loving at 69, you don't have too much to complain about. "Looking" only is no sin but since he knows it irritates you and looks anyway, he could be trying to prove his virility while he still can.

DEAR ABBY: I can't guarantee your wife won't get fat and lazy, but if she does,

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't a crime in America to get fat—but it might as well be.

You can steal a million dollars or beat your wife in private and still be socially acceptable. Let yourself get fat in public, however, and you find the finger of scorn continually pointing at you or punching you in the tummy.

It is hard to figure why, when a man gains weight, his friends should take it as a personal insult to them, but that's the way it is. Even his enemies won't forgive him. They apparently feel the fat will cause him to die sooner, and then they won't have anybody left alive to hate.

As a periodic fatty myself, I have several theories about overweight people. For one thing, I believe that if a person's fate is to be fat, he should let his fat alone. And everyone else should let it alone, too.

A fat man's fat is his castle, and he should be allowed to dwell in it in peace and privacy.

As it is, too many people in this country worry themselves sick trying to get healthy or stay young-looking. But why should it be regarded as a sin either to get old or to become fat? It is normal for everyone to become old, and it is natural for many to get fat.

The struggle against obesity can be one of the most boring and lonely battles on earth. And for most people who face this problem, it is a losing battle. They would be better off if they counted their blessings rather than their calories.

For, as every doctor knows, chronic obesity is more difficult to cure than tuberculosis, cancer, or alcoholism. It has fewer lasting recoveries—and more relapses.

But since, as yet at least, obesity isn't illegal, why should a fat man have to stew in his own blubber or starve trying to get rid of it? Why not relax and enjoy it?

A fat man who learns to live with his fat can usually lead a productive, happy and fairly long life if he can cease from fretting himself to death over what other people think of him.

I feel I am something of an authority on this subject, because for some time I have lived a double life and enjoyed the best of two worlds. Part of the year I am a fat man, and the rest of the year I take off the excess weight and go around looking like a Greek god.

That portion of the year in which I am built like a Greek god I get very little work done. I spend most of the time beating off eager girls with a baseball bat. This leaves me feeling gaunt, tired and with little energy for my job.

The months in which I am fat I find more relaxing and enjoyable. The girls don't bother me and I can put my baseball bat away. I don't feel the need to run for buses, jog around the park, go up steps two at a time, or bend myself into a pretzel posture doing yoga exercises. This leaves me free to concentrate on my work.

Life can be fun to a fat man. The sound of a meadowlark is as pleasing to him as to a thin man. In so simple a thing as taking a shower he finds even more pleasure, as there is more of him to get wet. He gets more pleasure out of going for a walk, too, as he gets more bounce to the ounce.

A final advantage: The matrimonial relations of a fat man are generally more harmonious than those of a thin man. A fat man has to stay on good terms with his wife. If he doesn't she can immobilize him by refusing to tie his shoelaces in the morning.

So, all ye men of good will, do not criticize or frustrate the friendly fat man. Help him to keep his chins up. Pat him on the back and tell him he's a swell guy. Take him to lunch—and be sure to tell the waiter to put a big dipper of ice cream on his apple pie.

FROM A RURAL DISTRICT of England comes the story of a driver of a small sedan braking hastily as the tweedy mistress of the largest estate thereabouts came hurtling around a sharp bend in the narrow road in her large Rolls. Before he could say a word, she shouted "PIG!" and drove on. "Fat old Cow," he cried after her in retaliation.

Then he drove round the bend himself—and crashed head-on into the biggest pig he ever had seen.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

One of the most painful accidents that can befall the elderly is a fracture of the hip. Despite all safety campaigns these fractures continue to occur and incapacitate the elderly for months and sometimes permanently. What is particularly distressing is that in most instances these fractures are avoidable.

Carelessness almost always is the basic cause for the accidents that may require surgery for the repair of the break. Haste is unquestionably the most frequent cause in people who simply refuse to slow down and give heed to the fact that they are not as agile as they once were. Street accidents in slippery weather account for a good number of these but even more fractures occur within the supposed safe confines of the home.

A few good rules of safety might include the removal of scatter rugs on highly waxed floors. There now are anti-skid protective undercoats that help to keep the elderly steady. Good lighting is an excellent precaution. Electric wiring that is poorly placed is a hazard. A small night light that will not interfere with sleep decreases the chance of injury during the midnight visit to the bathroom.

Stairways, especially those that do not have safety rails on both sides, invite the fractures that occur so readily in the brittle bones of people past middle age. A cane is an excellent form of additional support for men and women. Vanity must not be a factor leading to these unnecessary injuries.

Two lung conditions seem to sound alike and are frequently confused by the anxious patient, despite the fact that they are totally different. Bronchial Asthma and Asthmatic Bronchitis must never be used interchangeably.

Bronchial Asthma is a severe spasm of the bronchial tubes leading from the mouth to the lungs into which is brought the vital air and oxygen so necessary for good health. Occasionally, there is a swelling of the lining of these tubes which may interfere with the clear passageway of air cups!

Bronchial Asthma is undoubtedly allergic in origin and frequently needs intensive study to find that nature of the offending agent. It is also an established idea that the emotions play a very significant role in both the cause of this type of asthma and the emotional overtones that accompany it.

When once the offending substance is found and eliminated, there is a decrease in the frequency and severity of these attacks. With the newer drugs and cortisone, many asthmatics can be kept in comfortable control for long periods of time.

Asthmatic Bronchitis may be allergic in origin but frequently follows an acute respiratory infection. The normal expected swelling of the lining of the bronchial tubes, not unlike the swelling of the nose and the back of the throat, may cause slight wheezing and difficulty in breathing. This may resemble asthma, but usually is not. Anti-spasm drugs can control this temporary and not too disabling condition.

Case For Missile Defense

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Are we being conned and pressured into opposing the deployment of an anti-ballistic missile defense system by scientists who still rely on statistics which were true when John F. Kennedy was alive but which no longer have any relevance?

This is one inference to be drawn from a remarkable paper, "The Case for Missile Defense," by D. G. Brennan, scheduled for publication in the April issue of Foreign Affairs. The interesting point about the author is that he was, in the early Sixties, a "mild opponent" of ABM deployment. He has since changed his mind about ABM value because of a host of subtle technical considerations which perhaps can be covered by a single proposition: where it once cost a lot less to make an atomic missile to kill an enemy than to keep a missile from hitting your own men, the so-called cost exchange ratio for a good defense is now in the region of one-to-one, or, as the scientists put it, at unity.

In other words, it has become just as cheap to buy ABM defense for a citizen of your own country as it is to build a superior missile able to penetrate the growing anti-missile barrier of your enemy's country. The money argument about the ABM being the more costly road no longer holds. But this isn't what you have been hearing from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology scientists who follow Dr. Jerome Wiesner, who was President Kennedy's old adviser.

Dear Editor:

The article concerning Neil Coleman's visit to a Korean Orphan adopted by a Sunday School Class contained an inaccuracy which I wish to clarify. It stated that I am the fifth grade Sunday School Teacher. This is not true now. In December of 1966, the time of the adoption, I was the teacher of the fifth grade class but am no longer. I have merely forwarded the support money collected by the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grade Sunday School Classes to the agency responsible and I do the corresponding with the orphan as the letters are limited to one a month.

The elementary school is not involved in any way concerning the orphan, only the Sunday School Class.

A picture of the sixth grade elementary class, taught by Mr. E. Miller Hundley, holding a letter which they had written to Neil and not the orphan was to be included in the article and was not printed. A Servant In Christ.

School Teachers Hold 2nd Study Day

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Public schools teachers in Independence and Fairport held their second professional study day Thursday. Classes were held in both systems.

Independence has 74 teachers and Fairport, in Lake County, has 40.

Mr. Brennan speaks of recent research on anti-ballistic missile efficacy. It is astounding that this is absolutely fresh news. We have, he says, "conducted a major research and development program — on the order of one-third billion dollars per year — in means of penetrating missile defenses for several years, and no cheap and reliable way of penetrating a good missile defense has been found." Yet our doctrine, formulated by former Secretary of Defense McNamara, is that we must always have an assured offensive capability of killing at least fifty million Russians in a strike if they should start a war against us.

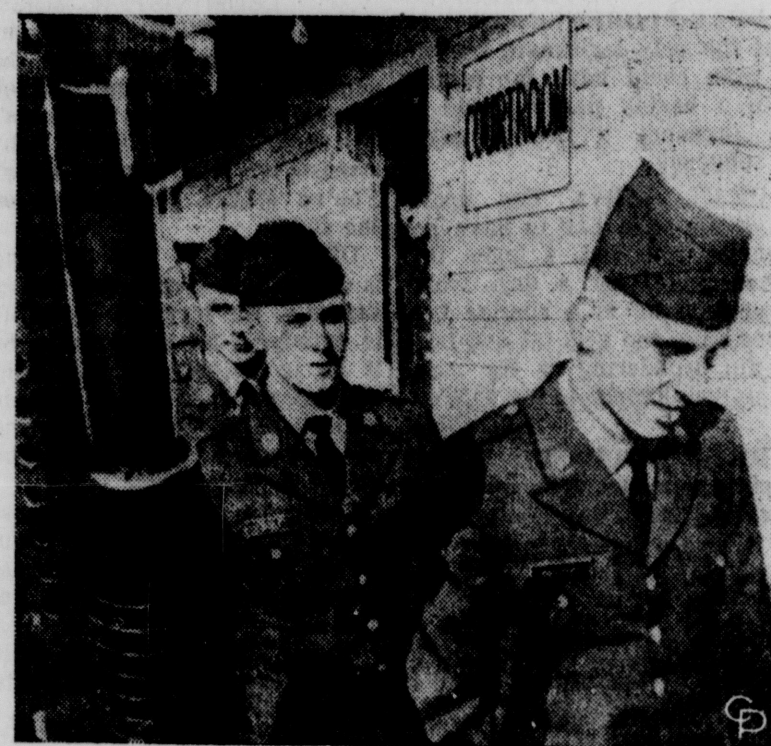

If this law of the "deterrent margin" is to be taken as the equivalent of a law of nature governing our future "defense," the fact that the Soviets calmly continue to build their own ABM defenses is going to impose staggering costs on us. For as fast as the Russians build a dollar of safety into their defenses we must spend to overcome that dollar. The effort to keep up with the McNamara "50,000,000 Russian hostages" figure, when the Russians are all the time improving a system of defense against missiles, could trap us into becoming the image of a real monster. It change.

could be much cheaper in the long run to think in terms of saving American lives by making it more costly for the enemy to penetrate our own defenses.

"From the mid-1950s to the mid-1960s," says Mr. Brennan, "the strategic postures of the super powers were dominated by the logic that, since we could not defend, we had to deter. This position, for which there was originally ample justification, now seems to be interpreted in some minds — chiefly certain American ones — to mean that, since we must deter, we cannot defend. This should count as the non sequitur of the decade."

Mr. Brennan, though he is not writing specifically about arms control, thinks a practical agreement between the Soviets and the Americans might be reached on the subject of military budget ceilings. With the cost exchange ratios near "unity," says Mr. Brennan, the attitudes prevailing "are not driven by the technology toward either deterrence or defense but may (and do) go in either direction."

The fashion in America has been to favor putting practically all the money on offense. But with defense a possibility, there is no reason the fashion can't change.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The trading stamp industry seems to have recovered a bit from the concussion it received from cost-conscious housewives in 1966, but there probably never will be a return to those blissful earlier days.

For more than 50 years stamps were a rather unimpressive marketing tool. But then in the 1950s and early 1960s a changing America gave them a rocket like boost.

It came about this way. Following World War II there was a revolution in food merchandising, primarily with the introduction of the supermarket. Such large stores, of course, needed huge volume in order to make profits.

However, customers didn't have the same loyalty to the impersonal supermarkets as they had to the old-time store proprietor. They tended to shift from one store to another, even buying at three or four in one week.

Under way at the same time was a migration from the core cities to the suburbs, and as supermarket managers learned, suburban customers are mobile customers. They have second cars, and so their choice of stores is vast.

Another factor was at work. The standardization of major product lines, heavily promoted and advertised, meant that one store could offer little that its competitor didn't have. Stores were becoming alike.

In an effort to create individuality, the stores turned to stamps and soon had much of America licking and pasting and redeeming.

In 1955 sales of trading stamp services was only a bit more than $200 million. The magazine Incentive Marketing estimates the 1968 total at about $776 million.

Spectacular as it is, this growth isn't as strong as it looks. For the first time in its history the industry suffered a sales decline in 1967, a direct result of the housewives' boycott of games and gimmicks and prices.

The increase during the past year resulted not so much from a return to favor of stamps as it did from inflation and a sharp rise in retail sales. The more goods sold, the more the stamp people benefitted.

However, the percentage of sales involving trading stamps

continues to drop. Several years ago 13 per cent of retail sales involved stamps. The percentage now is about 11.

Dr. Fred Allvine, an assistant professor at Northwestern University, foresees an even greater decline. He forecasts a drop in the market share held by stamp-giving stores to 24 per cent, or one-half that of 1962.

After interviewing supermarket executives, he reported in the Journal of Marketing on what he termed the total immergency hypothesis.

This hypothesis predicts that in future years, dates unspecified, the vast majority of supermarkets will drop stamps. The catalyst, he feels, is likely to be a volume-hungry discount grocery chain.

This type of chain, he reports, is growing in markets of 50,000 or more people, sometimes advertising "no stamps, no games, no gimmicks—just everyday low prices."

could be much cheaper in the long run to think in terms of saving American lives by making it more costly for the enemy to penetrate our own defenses.

"From the mid-1950s to the mid-1960s," says Mr. Brennan, "the strategic postures of the super powers were dominated by the logic that, since we could not defend, we had to deter. This position, for which there was originally ample justification, now seems to be interpreted in some minds — chiefly certain American ones — to mean that, since we must deter, we cannot defend. This should count as the non sequitur of the decade."

Mr. Brennan, though he is not writing specifically about arms control, thinks a practical agreement between the Soviets and the Americans might be reached on the subject of military budget ceilings. With the cost exchange ratios near "unity," says Mr. Brennan, the attitudes prevailing "are not driven by the technology toward either deterrence or defense but may (and do) go in either direction."

The fashion in America has been to favor putting practically all the money on offense. But with defense a possibility, there is no reason the fashion can't change.

Dear Editor:

The article concerning Neil Coleman's visit to a Korean Orphan adopted by a Sunday School Class contained an inaccuracy which I wish to clarify. It stated that I am the fifth grade Sunday School Teacher. This is not true now. In December of 1966, the time of the adoption, I was the teacher of the fifth grade class but am no longer. I have merely forwarded the support money collected by the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grade Sunday School Classes to the agency responsible and I do the corresponding with the orphan as the letters are limited to one a month.

The elementary school is not involved in any way concerning the orphan, only the Sunday School Class.

A picture of the sixth grade elementary class, taught by Mr. E. Miller Hundley, holding a letter which they had written to Neil and not the orphan was to be included in the article and was not printed. A Servant in Christ.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The trading stamp industry seems to have recovered a bit from the concussion it received from cost-conscious housewives in 1966, but there probably never will be a return to those blissful earlier days.

For more than 50 years stamps were a rather unimpressive marketing tool. But then in the 1950s and early 1960s a changing America gave them a rocket like boost.

It came about this way. Following World War II there was a revolution in food merchandising, primarily with the introduction of the supermarket. Such large stores, of course, needed huge volume in order to make profits.

However, customers didn't have the same loyalty to the impersonal supermarkets as they had to the old-time store proprietor. They tended to shift from one store to another, even buying at three or four in one week.

Under way at the same time was a migration from the core cities to the suburbs, and as supermarket managers learned, suburban customers are mobile customers. They have second cars, and so their choice of stores is vast.

Another factor was at work. The standardization of major product lines, heavily promoted and advertised, meant that one store could offer little that its competitor didn't have. Stores were becoming alike.

In an effort to create individuality, the stores turned to stamps and soon had much of America licking and pasting and redeeming.

In 1959 sales of trading stamp services was only a bit more than $200 million. The magazine Incentive Marketing estimates the 1968 total at about $776 million.

Spectacular as it is, this growth isn't as strong as it looks. For the first time in its history the industry suffered a sales decline in 1967, a direct result of the housewives' boycott of games and gimmicks and prices.

The increase during the past year resulted not so much from a return to favor of stamps as it did from inflation and a sharp rise in retail sales. The more goods sold, the more the stamp people benefitted.

However, the percentage of sales involving trading stamps

continues to drop. Several years ago 13 per cent of retail sales involved stamps. The percentage now is about 11.

Dr. Fred Allvine, an assistant professor at Northwestern University, foresees an even greater decline. He forecasts a drop in the market share held by stamp-giving stores to 24 per cent, or one-half that of 1962.

After interviewing supermarket executives, he reported in the Journal of Marketing on what he termed the total immersion hypothesis.

This hypothesis predicts that in future years, dates unspecified, the vast majority of supermarkets will drop stamps. The catalyst, he feels, is likely to be a volume-hungry discount grocery chain.

This type of chain, he reports, is growing in markets of 50,000 or more people, sometimes advertising "no stamps, no games, no gimmicks—just everyday low prices."

Deny Evans Bid For Venue Shift

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge ruled Thursday against a change of venue in the first-degree murder trial of Black Nationalist leader Fred "Ahmed" Evans and swore in an all-white jury of seven women and five men.

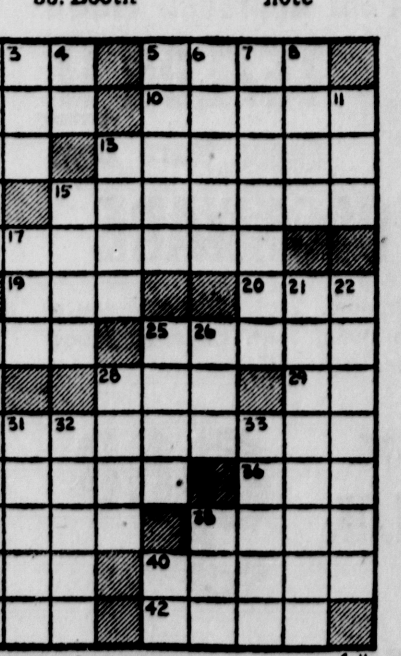

The jurors then left to look at five locations in connection with the sniper firing and disorders last July in the predominantly Negro Glenview area.

Evans, a 37-year-old former Army sergeant, is charged with seven counts of first-degree murder in the deaths of three white policemen and a Negro civilian during the shootings.

'Mannix' Says TV Industry Overreacting To Violence

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The television networks have overreacted to the outcry against violence, says Mike Connors, whose "Mannix" series has been profoundly affected by the curbs on rugged action.

Connors, as the hard-bitten private sleuth Mannix, will be back for a third season on CBS, but he admits that the show almost didn't make it.

"I was never in doubt that we would be renewed, as far as the ratings were concerned," he commented. "Mannix" held its own in the first season and then took off like a rocket in its second season. But, despite the ratings, I feared that the show would be canceled as a gesture to impress the FCC and the Milton Eisenhower commission on violence.

"Then the network would be able to say, 'See-we had a successful show in 'Mannix' and we took it off because of its violence.'"

While not defending violence in television, Connors believes that the campaign against it has reached absurd proportions.

"All right, so you want to remove all violence from television," he propounded. "That means no more football; what could be more violent than knocking a halfback six feet in the air?"

"No more boxing matches. Consider the violence of two men trying to beat each other's brains out, and for what purpose? To make money. At least the fistfights on 'Mannix' have a more worthwhile reason: the triumph of good over evil.

"And if you're going to do away with all violence on the home screen, that means no more news shots of campus demonstrations. And no more coverage of the war in Vietnam."

Connors admitted that "Mannix" bordered on violence during its first season, which featured a rubber-hose beating and other bits of strong action. But all that was changed in the crackdown that followed the assassinations of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy.

"During the last season the rough stuff was cut down to an almost ridiculous extent," the actor said. "Now 'Mannix' has always been an action show that features a great deal of movement. It also requires occasional rough action-how else are you going to apprehend a criminal?"

"Yet I would estimate that in 15 out of the season's 25 shows, I didn't even produce a gun."

Boy Becomes Mother To Opossums

CINCINNATI (AP) — Young Mike Kahles played the role of midwife Wednesday and helped deliver five baby opossums after their mother had been killed.

Confident and wearing a white "surgical" glove, Mike pulled the babies from their mother and is now feeding them with an eyedropper and a doll baby bottle.

"It was kinda easy to pull them out," said the bespectacled son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kahles of Cincinnati after the one-hour "operation" in front of his house.

The 11-year-old boy said he discovered the mother opossum had been killed in the street in front of his home, and "When I got there, I saw this little thing wiggling around."

He was referring to one opossum that had already been born. "I saw two others half-way out and I was wondering what was happening," he said.

With several neighborhood friends watching him in his basement where he is taking care of the opossums, Mike said with a grin, "I've got their feeding and visiting hours at the same time."

GOP Wants Perk To Face Stokes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Republicans in Cleveland are eyeing popular Cuyahoga County Auditor Ralph J. Perk as the man they believe can beat Carl Stokes for mayor.

One of Perk's acquaintances, visiting Columbus, said he believes Perk will make the race. Perk admitted a couple of months ago he was "seriously considering" it.

The heavily-Democratic county has long had a high regard for Perk. He always is a front-runner in areas that have a large foreign-born population.

"I think he's the only man who can do it," the friend said. "And I think we're about to convince him that he should run."

Stokes announced his candidacy for reelection following a dinner in his honor Wednesday night.

Gov. James A. Rhodes keeps everybody, including his own staff, guessing his next move.

Early Thursday, his office let it be known the governor was headed for Washington to attend a dinner honoring Ray Bliss, outgoing national GOP chairman.

Art Robinson, one of the governor's public relations aides, decided to take longer than the usual lunch hour. It was his birthday.

When he returned about 1:30, the governor was there.

"I thought I was seeing a ghost," Robinson said. "I was sure he left for Washington around 7 a. m."

Rhodes then grabbed Jim Duerk, another PR aide who also thought the chief was out of town, and headed for the airport—and Washington.

There can be little doubt that spring has arrived in Columbus.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown went into his office Wednesday to find most of his help peering out a window.

"They were watching a love-in on the statehouse lawn," Shrugged Brown.

A few more pickets and summer can't be far away.

Supporters of a bill to provide for the registration of sanitationarians are worried the measure might be indefinitely tied up in the House Rules Committee.

A state officer in the organization was on hand Wednesday to take members of that committee to lunch.

The bill, when first offered, got speedy treatment at hearings but then ran into a roadblock.

The bill provides that sanitationarians have a college degree, although less than one-third of them now do. It has a grandfather clause protecting current sanitationarians.

That aspect of the bill had escaped attention.

Even one of the sponsors didn't know it until after it was reported out of the House Health and Welfare Committee.

OSU Delays
Open Housing
For Campus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State University Board of Trustees postponed action Thursday on the open-housing proposal for the campus area until a formal opinion on its legality can be obtained from the Ohio attorney general.

Board Chairman John W. Bricker asked that the opinion be obtained before the next meeting of the trustees May 8. "We appreciate the tremendous amount of time that has been put on this rule by the student organizations," Bricker said. But he added that the proposal presented "very complex" and serious problems of legality the board needed more time for consideration.

In other major actions the trustees authorized acquisition of additional acreage for the proposed Transportation Research Center north of Marysville in Union and Logan County.

To be added to the center is a 2,685-acre area extending to the east and southeast of the original 5,507-acre site. The new tract, all in Union County, will be acquired from some 35 owners.

Trustees also approved plans for the $9.5 million Learning Resources Center, both on the west campus.

The trustees also approved an administration recommendation that the university's policy on sale of alcoholic beverages be extended to the new Center for Tomorrow now under construction, and to the OSU golf course facility as it was applied to the Faculty Club and Ohio Union.

OSU Delays Open Housing For Campus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State University Board of Trustees postponed action Thursday on the open-housing proposal for the campus area until a formal opinion on its legality can be obtained from the Ohio attorney general.

Board Chairman John W. Bricker asked that the opinion be obtained before the next meeting of the trustees May 8. "We appreciate the tremendous amount of time that has been put on this rule by the student organizations," Bricker said. But he added that the proposal presented "very complex" and serious problems of legality the board needed more time for consideration.

In other major actions the trustees authorized acquisition of additional acreage for the proposed Transportation Research Center north of Marysville in Union and Logan County.

To be added to the center is a 2,685-acre area extending to the east and southeast of the original 5,507-acre site. The new tract, all in Union County, will be acquired from some 35 owners.

Trustees also approved plans for the $9.5 million Learning Resources Center, both on the west campus.

The trustees also approved an administration recommendation that the university's policy on sale of alcoholic beverages be extended to the new Center for Tomorrow now under construction, and to the OSU golf course facility as it was applied to the Faculty Club and Ohio Union.

Stewardship Week Set May 11-18

Soil Stewardship Week, a nationwide observance which places emphasis on man's obligation to God as stewards of the soil, water and other related resources, will be celebrated locally, May 11-18, according to David H. Bolender, chairman, Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation District.

This year's observance with the theme "Confronting the Issues," underscores the responsibility which each citizen has in dealing forthrightly with current issues involving stewardship of renewable natural resources. The Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation District and some 3,000 companion Districts throughout the nation along with their State and National Associations are sponsoring the event for the 15th consecutive year.

The Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation District will provide upon request, to churches of all faiths, program blanks, bulletin inserts, and booklets created particularly for this year's observance. These may be picked up at the local office, 1440 N. Court Street, Circleville, Ohio.

The materials were prepared by the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, in cooperation with a Soil Stewardship Advisory Committee composed of leading church men in the nation. The committee consists of the Rev. E. W. Mueller, Lutheran Council in the U.S.A.; the Rt. Rev. John George Weber, National Catholic Rural Life Conference; the Rev. Harold S. Huff, Methodist Church; the Rev. Henry A. McCanna, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.; and Dr. C. Wilson Brumley, Southern Baptist Convention.

Through the 1969 theme and in the attractively illustrated booklet, emphasis is placed upon confronting today's issues in this complex world.

Troy, N.Y. Nearly Sunk Under Sea Of Big Trouble

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — The 68,000 residents of this "collar city" are up to their collar buttons in a quagmire of uncollected garbage, bus fare hikes, political feuds, a court fight over leadership and threats of police and firemen strikes.

Residents of this Hudson River city about seven miles north of the state capital, Albany, probably didn't know whether to laugh, shrug or tear their hair.

Troy's besieged city manager prepared for a court appearance to fight for job survival. Garbage continued to pile in the streets. A 29-hour bus strike for higher wages ended, but a final settlement hasn't been worked out. Another bus line announced that fares would go up Sunday from 25 to 30 cents.

Meanwhile, residents speculated about whether and when the city's policemen and firemen might decide to make good their months-old threat to strike for higher pay.

City Manager Adrian Gonyea — commenting on a restraining order which forced him to appoint an interim manager Thursday and which will bring him to court Friday — said:

"It couldn't have come at a worse time."

City refuse-escalated by spring cleaning—began to mount Tuesday when a temporary landfill in a nearby town was closed, leaving three communities to find a new one. Only Troy was unable to arrange for emergency relief.

On the political front, Gonyea lost a round in a months-long dispute with Lawrence Collins, the man he ousted in February for alleged incompetence—after 35 years on the job—as city comptroller.

Collins brought a taxpayer's suit charging that Gonyea is not legally in office since he wasn't a city resident when he took the job last Jan. 1. Gonyea has since established a Troy address.

Collins asked the court to restrain Gonyea from performing his duties. The court issued a restraining order.

Gonyea had a last laugh of sorts Thursday. He appointed City Engineer Paul Weiss as temporary manager. Weiss does not live in Troy.

Troy gained its collar city name because the first detachable shirt collar was manufactured here.

One of every seven gas company employees has been with Columbia 25 years or longer.

"These dinners honor our most experienced employees. We look forward to them as a way of showing our appreciation publicly for the long service and loyalty that have contributed so greatly to our ability to serve our customers better," B. J. Clarke, chairman of the board of the companies, said in discussing the banquet.

Woman Set To Battle For 'Garden'

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Art-lover Mrs. J. Kelly Kaufman has warned Muskegon officials they're in for a legal donnybrook if they try to clear piles of old railroad ties and foundry clinkers from her "earth garden."

Earth garden is the name used by Mrs. Kaufman, wife of a Muskegon industrialist, to describe the assemblage of what she terms "art" and what Muskegon officials call "junk" on a vacant lot near her home. A city inspector has ordered her to clean it out but she refuses.

Mrs. Kaufman responded irately Thursday to the City Commission's order that the city attorney take Mrs. Kaufman to court over the refusal to remove the old transformers, clinkers, oxidized metal shavings, urinals and what-not.

"They picked the wrong person to do this to," she asserted. "I have the best lawyers—and where in this city are they going to find an art expert?"

Troy, N.Y. Nearly Sunk Under Sea Of Big Trouble

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — The 68,000 residents of this "collar city" are up to their collar buttons in a quagmire of uncollected garbage, bus fare hikes, political feuds, a court fight over leadership and threats of police and firemen strikes.

Residents of this Hudson River city about seven miles north of the state capital, Albany, probably didn't know whether to laugh, shrug or tear their hair.

Troy's besieged city manager prepared for a court appearance to fight for job survival. Garbage continued to pile in the streets. A 29-hour bus strike for higher wages ended, but a final settlement hasn't been worked out. Another bus line announced that fares would go up Sunday from 25 to 30 cents.

Meanwhile, residents speculated about whether and when the city's policemen and firemen might decide to make good their months-old threat to strike for higher pay.

City Manager Adrian Gonyea — commenting on a restraining order which forced him to appoint an interim manager Thursday and which will bring him to court Friday — said: "It couldn't have come at a worse time."

City refuse — escalated by spring cleaning — began to mount Tuesday when a temporary landfill in a nearby town was closed, leaving three communities to find a new one. Only Troy was unable to arrange for emergency relief.

On the political front, Gonyea lost a round in a months-long dispute with Lawrence Collins, the man he ousted in February for alleged incompetence — after 35 years on the job — as city comptroller.

Collins brought a taxpayer's suit charging that Gonyea is not legally in office since he wasn't a city resident when he took the job last Jan. 1. Gonyea has since established a Troy address.

Collins asked the court to restrain Gonyea from performing his duties. The court issued a restraining order.

Gonyea had a last laugh of sorts Thursday. He appointed City Engineer Paul Weiss as temporary manager. Weiss does not live in Troy.

Troy gained its collar city name because the first detachable shirt collar was manufactured here.

Gasco Honors Long-Time Employees

C. Victor Schneider, Circleville, an active gas company employee, has been invited to attend the Columbia Gas System Southeastern Quarter Century Club banquet May 7 at the American Legion Hall, Lancaster.

Similar dinners for long-time gas company employees are held in Delroy, Mansfield, Oberlin, Toledo and Columbus. The banquets are for Columbia Gas of Ohio and Ohio Fuel Gas Co. employees.

One of every seven gas company employees has been with Columbia 25 years or longer.

"These dinners honor our most experienced employees. We look forward to them as a way of showing our appreciation publicly for the long service and loyalty that have contributed so greatly to our ability to serve our customers better," B. J. Clarke, chairman of the board of the companies, said in discussing the banquet.

Woman Set To Battle For 'Garden'

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Art-lover Mrs. J. Kelly Kaufman has warned Muskegon officials they're in for a legal donnybrook if they try to clear piles of old railroad ties and foundry clinkers from her "earth garden."

Earth garden is the name used by Mrs. Kaufman, wife of a Muskegon industrialist, to describe the assemblage of what she terms "art" and what Muskegon officials call "junk" on a vacant lot near her home. A city inspector has ordered her to clean it out but she refuses.

Mrs. Kaufman responded irately Thursday to the City Commission's order that the city attorney take Mrs. Kaufman to court over the refusal to remove the old transformers, clinkers, oxidized metal shavings, urinals and what-not.

"They picked the wrong person to do this to," she asserted. "I have the best lawyers — and where in this city are they going to find an art expert?"

AMAZED...

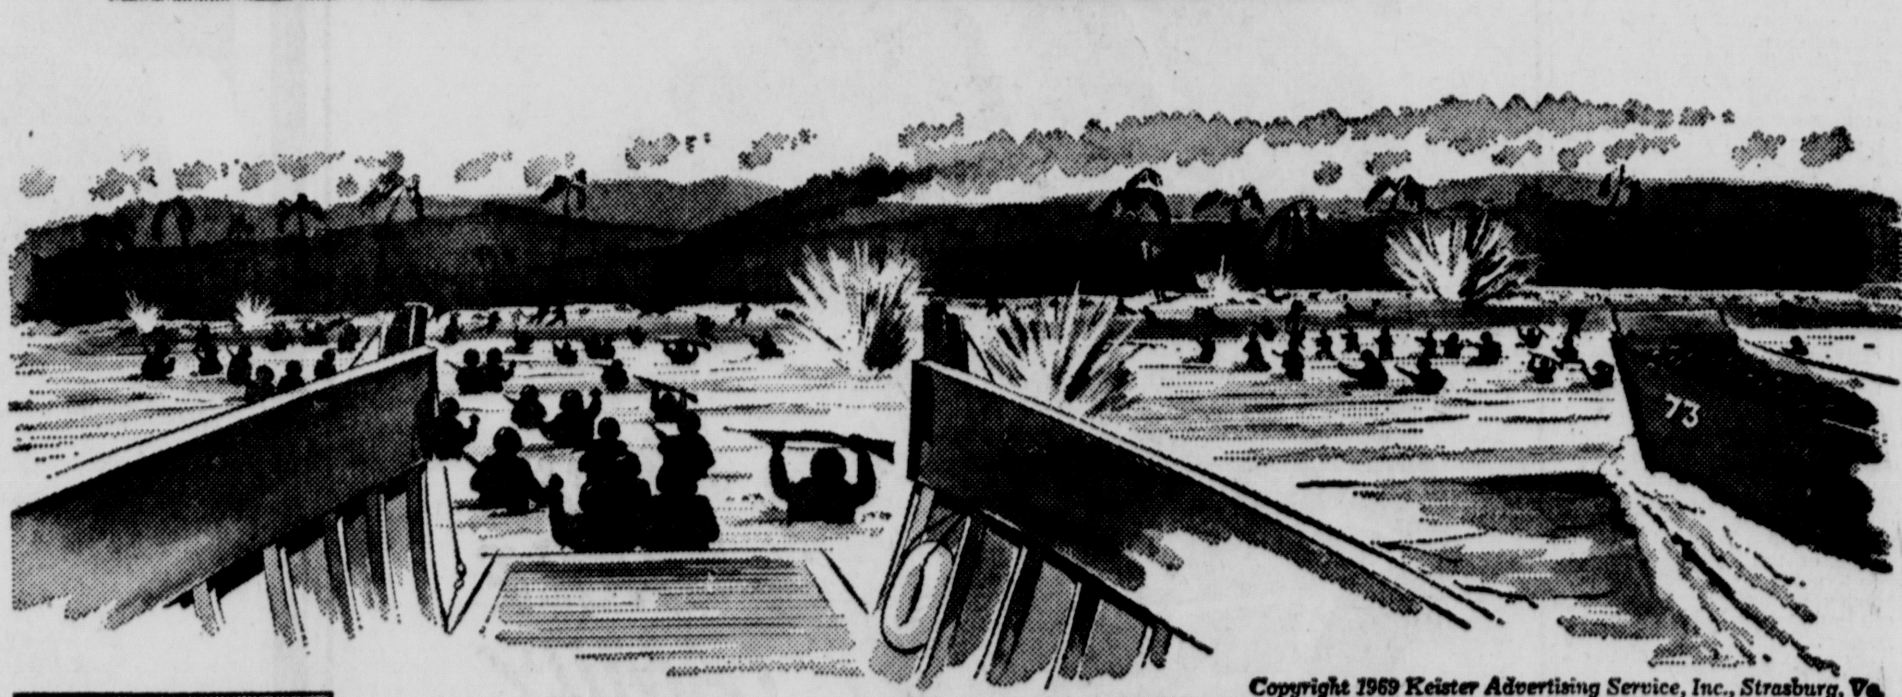

I tell a few war stories—just like the rest. The censorship of good taste and modesty makes my experiences pretty drab. But Jerry thrills to them. He's proud of his Dad's Purple Heart!

My son would be amazed if I were to tell him the stories we never tell, our thoughts as we hit the beach... what it was like in those jungles... what war does to its dead... and its living.

And in other ways Jerry would be amazed; for he doesn't know me as a man who prays often. He can't realize the depth of my Faith. He has never met the brave chaplain who brought me in when I was hit.

I'll never tell Jerry all of it. I don't think God wants me to!

I pray that Jerry's may be a different world. I want him to learn day by day, step by step, what his religion will mean to him! That's why we're a church-going family!

AMAZED...

I tell a few war stories—just like the rest. The censorship of good taste and modesty makes my experiences pretty drab. But Jerry thrills to them. He's proud of his Dad's Purple Heart!

My son would be amazed if I were to tell him the stories we never tell, our thoughts as we hit the beach... what it was like in those jungles... what war does to its dead... and its living.

And in other ways Jerry would be amazed; for he doesn't know me as a man who prays often. He can't realize the depth of my Faith. He has never met the brave chaplain who brought me in when I was hit.

I'll never tell Jerry all of it. I don't think God wants me to!

I pray that Jerry's may be a different world. I want him to learn day by day, step by step, what his religion will mean to him! That's why we're a church-going family!

Denver Defeats Oakland's Oaks

The Oakland Oaks led a collapse of the American Basketball Association's top four teams, which dropped two of them into a playoff hole.

The Oaks, runaway winners of the Western Division, were edged 109-108 Thursday night at Denver, which eaved their best-of-7 semifinal series at 2-2, while fourth-place Dallas cut second place New Orleans' lead to 2-1 with a 130-106 rout over the Bucs in Dallas.

In the Eastern semis, third-place Kentucky bounced first place Indiana 130-111, and fourth-place Minnesota hammered second place Miami 109-93 as the winners each took 2-1 leads in their series.

Circleville Loses At Chillicothe

The Circleville High School track team was defeated at Chillicothe, 95-32, Thursday.

The Cavaliers have not been beaten in dual competition on their home track in over two years.

They shut the Red and Black runners completely out in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the relay events.

The only first for Circleville was in the 880 Yard run. Bill McGowan tied Osborne of Chillicothe in the event. The time was 2:06.7, McGowan's best of the year.

"It was encouraging even though we got beat," track coach Jim Lint said. Will Bost and Dick Walters both had their best times of the year in the hurdles. Bost was clocked in 15.75, finished second in the highs and Walters was third in 16.3.

In the lows, Bost was third with a time of 22.1 while Walters finished fourth in 22.2.

The Circleville trackmen travel to Newark Saturday for the Newark Invitational. Tuesday they host Fairfield Union in a dual event.

Westfall '9' Blanks ZTHS

Gene Carfrey hurled Westfall to a 2-0 shutout over Zane Trace Thursday pushing the Mustangs' record for the season to three wins and no losses.

It was the first loss for the Pioneers. Carfrey went all the way on the mound, fanning 11, and giving up four hits.

He did not allow a single base on balls. Jeff Reisinger started for Zane Trace was relieved in the fifth by Chip Maxwell. They walked three, fanned ten and gave up five hits.

The longest hit for Zane Trace was a triple by Maxwell in the fourth inning. Maxwell's hit came with one out in the fourth but he was left standing at third when Carfrey set the next two batters he faced down on strikeouts. Maxwell was two for three at the plate for the losers.

WESTFALL scored in the fifth. Redman singled, but was thrown out at second when Rick Maurer attempted to advance him with a bunt.

Maurer, however, was safe at first on the fielder's choice. He went to second on a wild pitch and was singled home by Dwight Whaley.

John Furniss grounded out to the pitcher and Whaley went to second base. Then Greg Bigam lined a double to center that plated Whaley and the winning run. Bigam had two hits in the game.

Tonight Westfall hosts Madison South in a doubleheader. The first game is scheduled to start at 4:30 p.m.

Vikings Win Golf Match

Kelly Leatherwood was medalist for the match with a 42. Jock Hutchison, his opponent, shot a 48. Kelly picked up two points for the Vikings.

ED Combs, playing in the number three position, shot a 49 and split medalist honors with his opponent, Dave Hartzler, but lost match play to him. Jay Bastian carded a 45, winning both match and medal play from Fred Mock, who has a 46.

Teays Valley picked up a point on team total. They combined for a 180 compared to a 187 for the visitors.

YMCAs Plans Slo-Pitch

A slo-pitch softball league is being planned for members of the Pickaway County YMCA which will begin in the very near future according to Athletic Coordinator.

The league will consist of a ten week program with games being played two evenings weekly. Team trophies will be provided for the league winner, runners-up, and third place. Individual trophies will be given to each member of the league's winning team.

An entry fee of $75 is required of each team entering. Thompson further stated that all participants must be members of the Pickaway County YMCA although a special offer is now being included for those who are not presently YMCA members.

Athletic team membership may be purchased at $5 providing one an opportunity to participate in the softball league. This athletic team membership is good for one year and includes the winter basketball league.

Biggest Hollywood Status Symbol Now Private Theater

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Picasos on the wall are nice. So are swimming pools, Rolls Royces, pool tables and mountaintop homesites. But for a real status symbol here you can't beat having your own, private home movie theater.

Pioneers like Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks Sr., Harold Lloyd and Sam Goldwyn first had them when flickers were silent. Now, equipped with wide screens, stereophonic sound and seats for 20 to 50 guests, they're in the homes of about 50 stars and executives.

To name a few: Bob Hope, Dean Martin, Debbie Reynolds, Edgar Bergen, Charlton Heston, producers Arthur Jacobson and Martin Ransohoff.

GOPers Leave Teddy's Tour

NOME, Alaska (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy pressed on with his tour of Alaskan villages today minus the Republican members of his subcommittee, who left the group in a dispute over the purpose of the trip.

The Republicans split off Thursday, contending the tour was being stage managed with an eye to getting publicity.

Kennedy said it was "incredible" that party politics had entered into the tour. The Massachusetts Democrat called the departure of the Republicans "a disservice to these needy people of Alaska."

Sen. William Saxbe was the first to leave and his Washington office later issued a statement saying the Ohioan felt the tour was a "stage managed scenario with conclusions already reached by the subcommittee before we left Washington."

He was followed by Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okl., and Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif. Bellmon called the trip a "publicity stunt."

Kennedy said he and Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., would continue the tour as part of an effort to give the Senate a "realistic and forceful program" aimed at improving the living conditions of the Alaska natives.

Sen. Ted Stevens and Rep. Howard Pollock, both R-Alaska, not members of Kennedy's subcommittee on Indian education, were invited to accompany the group and stayed with the tour.

Stevens said that despite the disagreement, he thought the trip would be beneficial to Alaska.

Streetwalkers Are Target Of Crackdown

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Memphis police are back to walking the streets again to keep prostitutes from doing the same thing.

Six officers in uniform and in teams of two walked beats in the vicinity of Beale and Hernando for seven hours Thursday night.

It was the first time in years policemen patrolled parts of the city on foot.

"It got so bad that the girls were even propositioning men accompanied by their wives," said Chief Inspector Graydon Tines. "You just couldn't walk the streets down there without being embarrassed."

Tines said the foot patrols had an advantage because the officers can observe activities better than from a patrol car.

"Everyone acts like Sunday school when the car drives by, but once the cars are gone the girls are back in business, even to the point of stopping traffic in the middle of the street and bargaining for lower prices," Tines said.

Besides lending status, home theaters serve a practical purpose, enabling tired producers to keep up comfortably with the competitor's products by exchanging films with them.

In his big Beverly Hills living room, where the screen drops out of the ceiling and the sound comes out of the stereo system, stars like Barbra Streisand, Raquel Welch and Anthony Newley view the latest pictures about one night a week.

Some home projection rooms are separate buildings, some are special rooms in the basement or elsewhere. What does one cost to build? "Ten to twenty thousand dollars," says a Bel-Air Circuit insider. And what did the circuit premier cost? "Under $20,000," collectively the home theaters, manned by union projectionists, are known as "the Bel-Air Circuit." Although named for that mountainside nest of well heeled movie moguls, the circuit stretches from the San Fernando Valley on the north to John Wayne's pad 40 miles south at Newport Beach.

Staff Memo To Kennedy Disclosed

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune said Thursday Sen. Edward M. Kennedy received a confidential staff memorandum suggesting that he turn his current Alaskan trip into a political tour by declaring that colonialism exists in the state and that Indians and Eskimos are victims of "economic exploitation."

The Tribune said in a Washington dispatch by Willard Edwards it had learned the contents of a staff memorandum to the Massachusetts Democrat which outlined the manner in which Kennedy could turn his three-day investigating tour of Alaska into political gains.

The memorandum, the newspaper said, suggests a number of dramatic methods for creating publicity for the benefit of 25 newspaper and television reporters, photographers and television crewmen scheduled to travel with Kennedy.

The Alaskan tour was announced as an inspection of the educational system operated by the Interior Department's Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Kennedy, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on Indian Education of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee, and six other members of the subcommittee are making the trip.

Closing Of Job Corps Center Stuns Group

By NEAL ULEVICH
Associated Press Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Slogans dot the walls of the St. Louis Job Corps Center for women. One of them reads: "Knowledge replaces fear, so don't be scared. Start learning."

But with the learning apparently about to stop, many of the 600 enrollees and 200 staff members are scared—and bewildered. The St. Louis facility is one of 65 the Department of Labor says will be closed in a major shakeup of the antipoverty program.

"It can't close," said one trainee.

"Boys and girls will be roaming the streets again," said another.

Many students feel sure the center will remain open "some way."

"The criteria they used is a mystery to me," said Al Androlewicz, director of the center. "I can only go by the criteria the Office of Economic Opportunity used, and we were always rated second or third."

Enrollees in St. Louis, Androlewicz said, stay an average of 9.2 months, high among the 17 Job Corps Centers for women. The national average is 7.3 months, he said.

Recent figures show 161 of 176 graduates placed in skilled jobs.

The percentage of girls completing the various courses, about one-third of the enrollees, is also high among Job Corps Centers, Androlewicz said.

"I thought the job corps was in trouble, but not us," he continued.

"I can't see any rhyme or reason to it. We've always been honest in our reporting."

The cost per student has been about $5,400 per year. It was due to come down to $5,100 next year because of the elimination of some programs.

"We've made mistakes in the past and we've rectified them. This center is a completely different place than it was two years ago," Androlewicz said.

Students currently enrolled in St. Louis could be transferred to other centers—if openings exist. The center, housed in the old Missouri Baptist hospital, is a self-contained operation providing instruction, living, dining, recreation, dental and medical facilities for the trainees.

It specializes in cramming the basic skills of productive living into minds generally untouched by middle-class, middle life standards. The name of one required course is, significantly, "The World of Work."

Basic courses concentrate on everyday skills such as reading, ciphering, writing a check, planning a budget, preparing meals.

Vocational skills, ranging from sales clerk to graphic arts specialist, also are taught.

"Most of our students average between the sixth and seventh grades in reading and mathematical skills. Many average the fourth grade overall," said Bernard Arzu, a former Jesuit student teaching at the center.

Arzu, like many of the center's faculty, is undecided about the future should the center close. One teacher said he had already received three job offers. In the graphics department, one of the program's most successful, a German immigrant, Manfred Nahser, teaches the sophisticated art of offset lithography.

Nahser was optimistic that the center might yet be kept open. Many of the teachers shared his view.

He pointed proudly to a picture showing several former students gathered around one of the center's offset presses.

"This girl works in Boston now," he said. "That one came from Shreveport and is now in Philadelphia."

One of the girls is now making $7,000 a year as an offset technician.

The starting pay for graduates, Nahser added, is about $100 a week.

Margaret Stewart, a 17-year-old Chicagoan, is one of Nahser's students. She was writing a letter to President Nixon Thursday afternoon.

"I have a strong belief it won't close. I have a strong belief it's good," she said. "I'm asking him to open his eyes and look at this. I want to know what he's going to do after he ruins it."

But, she adds, "I have a strong belief this letter won't get to him."
